55) Explain the rules for debits and credits. Use the accounting equation as a basis for your explanation and indicate the specific rules for debits and credits as they apply to the various accounts. Your answer should include the rules for all types of accounts affecting owner's equity.

Answer:

Capital

Revenues

Expenses

Withdrawals

Debits are on the left-hand side and credits are on the right-hand side. Depending upon which side of the equation you are on, debits will either increase or decrease an accounting equation item. Owner's equity has four specific accounts that have an effect on the owner's investment in the firm. Revenues and capital (investments by the owner) increase with credits while expenses and withdrawals increase with debits.

24) Describe the posting process and how it relates to the accounting process. Give an example in your discussion.

Answer: The posting process involves transferring the amounts recorded for each transaction in the journal to the individual accounts in the ledger. The posting process updates the accounts for the business events that have taken place. For example, assume the following transaction was recorded in the journal:

Supplies	200
Cash		200

The posting process would involve entering a $200 debit into the supplies account and a $200 credit into the cash account. This would increase the supplies account and decrease the cash account by $200.
