Assume that there is no federal law mandating a maximum limit of cars, and further assume that freight trains frequently consist of over 100 cars. Colorado has justified the law by saying that shorter trains are safer, but the state's evidence is not persuasive. Colorado also claims that very long trains inconvenience drivers and can cause major traffic jams. How will a court likely decide this dispute?

These mud flaps have been proved to make driving in the rain significantly safer as they reduce mist created by trucks in the rain, although data regarding accidents and injuries have not yet been determined. Any truck entering Kansas must have these flaps installed or will be subject to a significant fine and delay. The cost for purchase and installation of these flaps is $1,000 per truck. In short, trucks must have these flaps or go around the state. This Kansas law
- A) is valid because it applies only to Kansas roads and such a law is entirely intrastate.
 - B) is valid because Kansas's right to protect its citizens under its police powers will override any outside challenges to this law.
 - C) is invalid because this law is intended to regulate interstate commerce, an enumerated federal power.

- A) the government had a rational basis for believing that locally cultivated marijuana would end up in interstate commerce.
 - B) the intrastate, noncommercial cultivation and possession of marijuana was not intended to enter interstate commerce.
 - C) California's medical marijuana law was unconstitutional.
 - D) enforcement unreasonably burdened interstate commerce.

- A) for Bad Frog because children cannot purchase beer, so any exposure would be incidental.
 - B) for Bad Frog because the label did not concern an unlawful activity and the state did not prove its interest in protecting children from vulgarity.
 - C) for New York State because once the product was purchased, the labels would be exposed in refrigerators or in rooms while children were present.
 - D) for New York State because it proved a substantial effort to advance a valid state interest amounting to more than "not merely the removal of a few grains of sand from the beach of vulgarity."

Although no crimes have been reported in the area and Mike has done nothing suspicious, the police officer does not like Mike's appearance so he conducts a pat-down search and finds a tiny bag of marijuana. Under these circumstances, this is
- A) an illegal search under Fourth Amendment protections.
 - B) an illegal search under Fifth Amendment protections.

ESSAY QUESTIONS

- 71) Explain the origin and justification of judicial review.

Answer: Judicial review is the concept that the federal courts have the power to declare federal or state statutes unconstitutional, and therefore invalid, if they are inconsistent with the U.S. Constitution. This power is not specifically mentioned or granted in the Constitution but was first recognized in the 1803 case of Marbury v. Madison. Judicial review was not considered in any preconstitutional debates nor mentioned in the Federal Register. Nevertheless, it remains valid precedent to this day.

72) The U.S. Supreme Court has established three standards of review used when applying constitutional law. Name these three standards and discuss each in terms of how it relates to state objectives.

Answer: When a state action or statute advances a legitimate state objective such as an economic or social issue that is solely intrastate, the state need only prove a rational basis for the law. When an important state objective is at issue and the state can prove that its law or action is substantially related to that objective, the law or action is reviewed using intermediate-level scrutiny. When a state action or law relates to a fundamental right or a suspect classification, the state action or law is subject to strict scrutiny and the state must prove a compelling state interest to be successful.

73) The state of Colorado has enacted a statute limiting the size of freight trains entering the state to no more than 80 cars other than the locomotive(s) and the caboose. Assume that there is no federal law mandating a maximum limit of cars, and further assume that freight trains frequently consist of over 100 cars. Colorado has justified the law by saying that shorter trains are safer, but the state's evidence is not persuasive. Colorado also claims that very long trains inconvenience drivers and can cause major traffic jams. Trains longer than 80 cars must stop and reduce their size, employing additional locomotives to transport the cars through the state to the border, where they may again recouple and proceed. Discuss whether this law is valid.

Answer: Colorado is asserting its police powers, claiming to justify the law as protecting its citizens. Since the law applies only within the state's borders, it is also being justified as a purely intrastate law. In reality, the law creates a significant economic burden on interstate commerce. The time delay in coupling and uncoupling cars, as well as the time spent procuring additional locomotives, would make shipping by train much less efficient, and the additional costs would likely have a pass-through effect on customers of the shipped cargo. Going around the state is likely a very poor option. Congress has the power to regulate interstate freight train shipping and can preempt this intrastate Colorado law because of the significant and undue burden it creates on interstate commerce, making it invalid.

74) Congress has provided the state of Ohio $50 million for highway construction and renovation. As a condition, Ohio must award 30 percent of the contracts to firms that are owned by women or minorities. Ohio sues, claiming that such a condition is an intrusion on Ohio's right to seek competitive bids and make the best use of the money. Ohio also asserts that this condition will make it difficult to seek the best-quality companies and that how it allocates the money is purely a state function as long as it uses the money for the purposes intended. How will a court likely decide this dispute?

Answer: Congress's taxing and spending powers allow Congress to place conditions and restrictions on how federal money may be spent by the states. Asserting the Necessary and Proper Clause, Congress may require that money be used to achieve some public policy objective. The advocacy and support of women and minorities is an established public policy objective, so the courts will likely support Congress and uphold the conditions. Ohio's arguments, while logical and reasonable, will not be persuasive enough to overcome the public policy Congress is targeting. Only when individual constitutional rights are violated will the conditions be invalidated, and that is not evident here.

75) Name the four-part test established by the Court in Central Hudson Gas v. Public Service Commission that subjects government restrictions on commercial speech to a form of intermediate-level scrutiny.

Answer: The four-part test requires that (1) the commercial speech must concern a lawful activity and be truthful; (2) a substantial government interest in regulating the speech must exist; (3) the government must prove that the restriction directly advances the claimed government interest; and (4) the government's restriction must not be more extensive than is necessary to achieve the government's asserted interest.

76) In what manner was a citizen's right to privacy initially established? Explain.

Answer: Not specifically cited in the Constitution, a citizen's right to privacy was first formally recognized in the case of Griswold v. Connecticut, where the Court used language implied from the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth, and Ninth Amendments to establish a protected zone of privacy. The case resulted from the arrest of counselors who provided contraceptive advice to clients. The arrests were invalidated by the courts, which cited the rights of citizens to obtain information.

When Mike's girlfriend Kathy moves into his apartment, he is served with eviction papers. Mike claims that the apartment complex is violating his constitutional rights since it allows only married people to live together. Is he correct?

Answer: No, Mike is incorrect. Constitutional rights may not be restricted by the federal government under the Constitution or restricted by states under the Fourteenth Amendment. This apartment complex is privately owned, so most constitutional protections will not apply.

79) Explain the structure of the U.S. government and how the checks and balances system operates to maintain equalization of power between the different parts of the government.

Answer: The U.S. government consists of three independent parts. The executive branch (the president) enforces federal law, and the president enters into treaties, appoints judges and federal officials, and functions as the commander in chief of the armed forces. The president may exercise veto power over acts of the legislature. The legislature (Congress) enacts federal law and maintains impeachment and removal power over the president and judiciary. Should the judiciary establish a common law precedent, Congress may pass a statute that would preempt the common law decision. The judiciary (the federal courts) interprets the law and through judicial review may declare a federal or state law unconstitutional and thus invalid.

Her business consists of buying and reselling various goods over the Internet. She is very successful, with thousands of customers. In terms of regulation of commerce, how would you characterize her business?

Answer: At first look she would appear to be intrastate due to her lack of mobility and single-site setting, but because the Internet reaches the entire world, she would be classified as dealing in interstate commerce and most likely in foreign commerce and would, therefore, be subject to federal regulation.
