QuestionID: 02-65

Topic: Promotes a productive culture in the organization that values diversity, trust, and respect for individuals and their contributions

Skill: Applied

Objective: LO-2 Discuss at least five prohibited grounds for discrimination under human rights legislation, and describe the requirements for reasonable accommodation.

Answer: The requirement to work on Saturday is reasonable and would be a BFOR. Employers would generally be expected, however, to devise a work schedule to accommodate the job applicant. For the small corner store, this might not be possible, and the accommodation might be "undue hardship" given the number of people working at the store. For the large department store chain the accommodation could be made more easily.

Topic: Promotes a productive culture in the organization that values diversity, trust, and respect for individuals and their contributions

Skill: Recall

Objective: LO-2 Discuss at least five prohibited grounds for discrimination under human rights legislation, and describe the requirements for reasonable accommodation.

Answer: Women, aboriginals, people with disabilities, and visible minorities. Women are under-represented in leadership positions and remain under-represented in certain occupations (such as engineering). Aboriginal peoples have an unemployment rate significantly higher than the general population, and the same is true for persons with disabilities.

Visible minorities are frequently under-employed, with qualifications that are not recognized in Canada.

68. What steps should an employer use to design an employment equity program and ensure success?

Difficulty: 2

QuestionID: 02-68

Topic: Promotes a productive culture in the organization that values diversity, trust, and respect for individuals and their contributions

Skill: Recall

Objective: LO-6 Discuss HR's role in ensuring compliance with employment legislation in Canada.

Answer: Employment equity programs are designed to achieve a balanced representation of designated group members in the organization. It is a major management exercise because existing employees must be comfortable with other from diverse backgrounds, cultures, religions, etc. The following are the key steps to follow when designing a program:

1. Obtaining senior management commitment and support—a written policy endorsed by senior management should be posted throughout the organization or distributed to all employees
2. Data collection and analysis—this permits the organization to develop an internal work force profile
3. Employment systems review—a comprehensive examination of existing policies, procedures, practices, etc., to determine their impact on designated group members, so that existing intentional and systemic barriers can be eliminated
4. Plan development—setting of goals and timetable
5. Implementation
6. Monitoring, evaluating and revising
