Case-Based Critical Thinking Questions Case 1-1

Gabrielle wants very much to get a job in television. Each day she visits local television station websites and peruses the Help Wanted sections. To her surprise, there is an opening for a production assistant at Channel 30. To apply for the job, applicants must download a form from the Channel 30 website, fill it out, and then email it to the human resources manager. The form is a Microsoft Word 2013 document.

- 43. Anxious to apply, Gabrielle downloads the form and opens it on her computer. In the space allocated for today's date, Andrea types Janu and then is prompted by
  - a. Spell Check to spell "January" correctly
  - b. AutoCorrect to finish typing "January"
  - c. AutoComplete to insert the name of the month, January
  - d. AutoAdjust to adjust her font size to match the rest of the document

ANS: C PTS: 1 REF: WD 10 TOP: Critical Thinking

- 44. The first part of the form asks applicants to write one paragraph about why they would like to at work Channel 30. Right away, Gabrielle knows what she wants to write; she's grown up with Channel 30 and has always been impressed by the quality of the news anchors, especially Katie Couric. Each time she types Couric in her response, a red way underline appears beneath it. Gabrielle realizes that
  - a. she must be spelling "Couric" wrong
  - b. Word considers "Couric" to be a misspelled word
  - c. the form must be set up so as to discourage applicants from referring to specific Channel 30 employees
  - d. the word "Katie" has already been added to the Word dictionary and the red underline is a reminder to add "Katie" to AutoCorrect

ANS: B PTS: 1 REF: WD 15 TOP: Critical Thinking

- 45. Gabrielle is very excited and rushing. She continually types "teh" instead of "the." Fortunately, the
  - a. AutoCorrect feature corrects it automatically
  - b. spelling checker corrects it automatically
  - c. AutoComplete feature corrects it automatically
  - d. grammar checker corrects it automatically

46. As she types, Gabrielle notices that there are little dots between each word in her paragraph. Sometimes there is one dot and other times there are two dots. Confused, Gabrielle types her next two words very slowly to try and figure out what the dots are all about. She realizes that _____.

- a. each dot is a symbol of a completed word
- b. each dot is a symbol of no spelling errors in the previous word
- c. each dot represents a space between words, so she should go back and add an extra one wherever there is only one
- d. each dot represents a space between words, so she should go back and delete the extra ones she inserted

Case-Based Critical Thinking Questions Case 1-2

Kade is writing a cover letter that he will send with copies of his resume to different software development firms. Since a cover letter determines the first impression he will make, it has to be flawless. He has finished typing the letter but must stop to go to an evening class. He quickly saves it and exits Word 2013.

48. The next day Kade opens the letter in order to proofread it. He realizes that there is some formatting in part of the letter that he would like to use elsewhere in the letter. After using the Format Painter, he wants to turn it off. What key should he press?

ESSAY

1. List the steps to create an envelope.

ANS:

• On the ribbon, click the MAILINGS tab.

• In the Create group, click the Envelopes button to open the Envelopes and Labels dialog box with the Envelopes tab displayed.

• On the Envelopes tab, type a new address or edit the existing one.

• If necessary, type a return address. If you are using preprinted stationery that already includes a return address, click the Omit check box to insert a checkmark.

• To print the envelope immediately, insert an envelope in your printer, and then click the Print button. Or, to store the envelope along with the rest of the document, click the Add to Document button and print the envelope later.

2. Discuss the use of color and special effects in formal documents.

ANS:

In more formal documents, use color and special effects sparingly. The goal of letters, reports, and many other types of documents is to convey important information, not to dazzle the reader with fancy fonts and colors. Such elements only serve to distract the reader from your main point. In formal documents, it's a good idea to limit the number of colors to two and to stick with left alignment for text. In a document like a flyer, for example, you have a little more leeway because the goal of the document is to attract attention. However, you still want it to look professional.

3. Discuss working with inline pictures. What are they and what do they permit?

ANS:

By default, when you insert a picture in a document, it is treated as an inline object, which means its position changes in the document as you add or delete text. Also, because it is an inline object, you can align the picture just as you would align text, using the alignment buttons in the Paragraph group on the HOME tab. Essentially, you can treat an inline picture as just another paragraph. When you become a more advanced Word user, you'll learn how to wrap text around a picture so that the text flows around the picture—with the picture maintaining its position on the page no matter how much text you add to or delete from the document. The alignment buttons don't work on pictures that have text wrapped around them. Instead, you can drag the picture to the desired position on the page.
